CHINESE ELM

Ulmus parvifolia

'Reflection'

A Fleming's selection of Chinese Elm which has excellent uniformity and a reasonably dense crown. The attractive glossy green leaves have a serrated margin and is adaptable and quite tolerant of urban conditions.

Foliage: Lustrous and thick, dark green leaves with an evenly and shallowly serrated margin. In autumn the leaves turn bronzy-orange to yellowish-green and often reddish in a very narrow band along the margins. May be semi-evergreen in warmer climates.

Flowers: Inconspicuous flowers in late summer.

Fruit: Samara.

Culture: Adaptable and quite tolerant of urban conditions such as compaction, dryness and various pH levels. Performs best in moist, well drained soils. Tolerates wetness for short periods. Shows good resistance to pests and diseases.

Size: 10 x 11 metres.
